

A FORECLOSURE FILING DOES NOT MEAN YOUR HOME IS LOST

Cure

Under Colorado law, you have the right to bring your loan current to stop the foreclosure. There is no fee to file an “Intent to Cure.” To protect your rights, you should file as soon as you receive a foreclosure notice from the Public Trustee or no later than 15 days before the scheduled sale date. The law directs the Public Trustee to contact the lender or the lender’s attorney to request a statement of all sums to bring the loan current. The Public Trustee will send you the statement of amount due. You have until noon the day before the sale to pay. If the lender or the lender’s attorney does not provide the statement in a timely manner, the sale will be delayed.

Transfer of Title

Title does not transfer until the end of the 8th business day after sale, or at the conclusion of all established redemption periods. Until that time, the owner prior to sale remains the owner with full right to continue occupying the property.

Sales are frequently delayed.
There is no reason to vacate your home until after the foreclosure sale occurs.

Overbid

If your property is purchased at auction for more than the total owed to your lender, an “overbid” is created. This overbid may be claimed by other lienholders, or may be payable to the homeowner after sale. Contact us after sale if you may have an overbid; there is no need to pay a 3rd party to “help” you collect the money.

Fraud

You may receive offers of “help” from complete strangers in the mail, over the telephone and at your door. Some of these people may attempt to steal the equity you have in your home.

SOME COMMON SCHEMES

- Offers to “fix” or “stop” your foreclosure or other promises to “save” your home
- Promises to “cure” your default or “repair” your credit
- A “guaranteed buy out” or quick “cash for your home”
- Sale and lease-back schemes – a scheme in which you are encouraged to sell your home for a fraction of its current value and then rent it back until you can afford to buy it again
- Don’t sign any documents until you have had time to review them carefully and/or consult legal counsel about your rights
- Remember – Any kind of “deed” (warranty deed or quit claim deed) means you are transferring ownership of your home to someone else.
- Be especially careful of programs that lease your home back to you with a promise that you can repurchase it back at a later date
